

True, Ecstasy
doesn't sound like a dangerous drug.

Then again, who'd
take something called
severe dehydration
and stroke?

Ecstasy sounds harmless, but in high doses it can cause a sharp increase in body temperature, leading to kidney and cardiovascular system failure.

More than 1 in 10 American teens have already tried Ecstasy. Make sure your teen knows the risks.

Visit askyourkidsaboutE.com, then talk to your kids. If they know you know, they might not use.

Partnership for a Drug-Free Maine and America